Black Skin White Coats Nigerian

Black Skin, White Coats is a history of psychiatry in Nigeria from the 1950s to the 1980s. Working in the contexts of decolonization and anticolonial nationalism, Nigerian psychiatrists sought to replace racist colonial psychiatric theories about the psychological inferiority of Africans with a universal and egalitarian model focusing on broad psychological similarities across cultural and racial boundaries.

This pattern is very common in the Nigerian Dwarf breed. It is the only known recessive agouti pattern. Meaning a goat must carry two copies of black to have a black coat. Both parents must be black or carry black to produce black offspring. Breeding recessive black to recessive black will always result in black offspring, with very rare exceptions.
